om the Pearl to the Personne time later Governor

Holmes named the area Mobile County and appointed officers for it. The first officers were: Justices of the quorum or orphans' court, Wheeler Gresham, Noel Jourdan, and Robert Williamson; justices of the peace, George Davis and Benjamin Youngblood; sheriff, Ellis Fairbanks; coroner, John Dease.

JACKSON COUNTY

In December, 1812, Mobile County was divided into three counties, with Jackson in the center with about the area now included in Jackson and George.

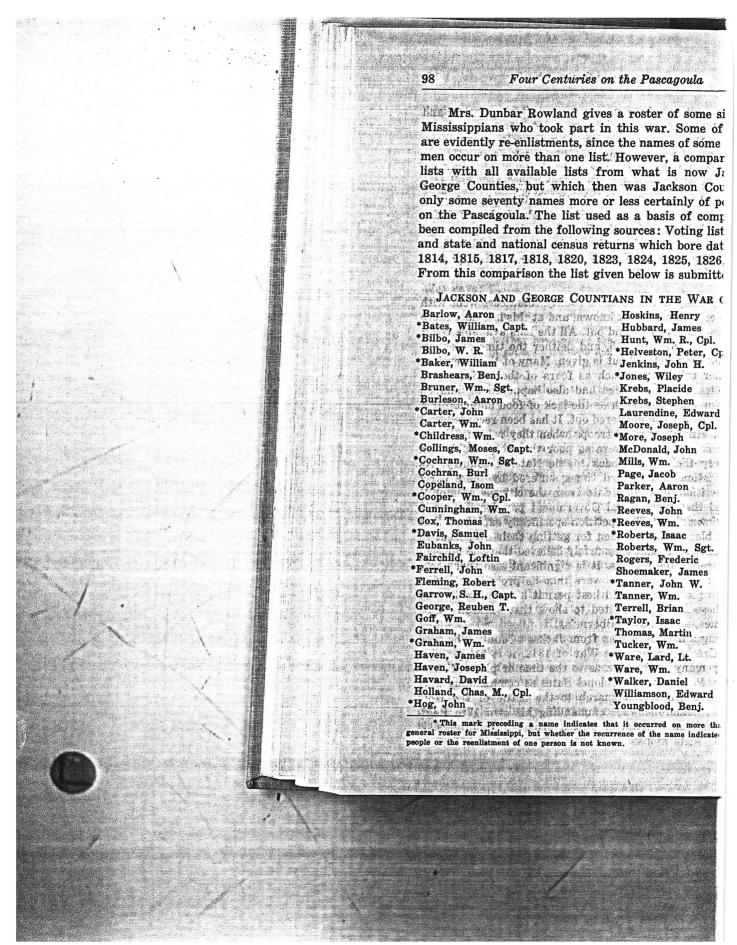

The quorum or orphans' court mentioned above had jurisdiction over county affairs similar to the present board of supervisors, and in addition some minor matters now under the chancery court. During the latter part of this period the name "probate court" was used.

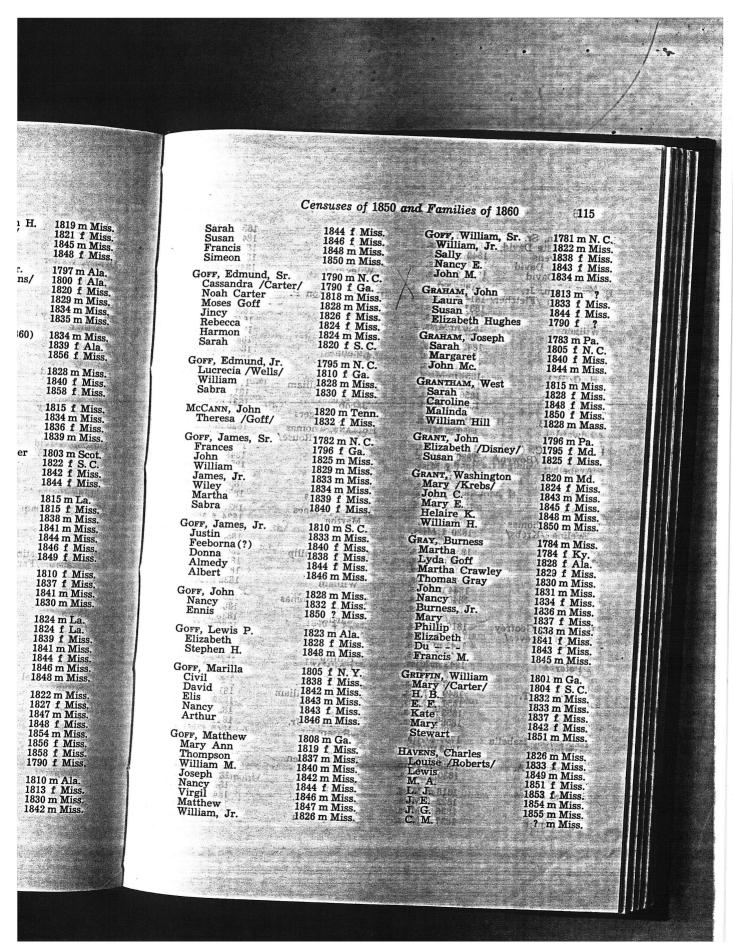

Justices of the Quorum. 1812, Thomas Bilbo, James Ware, Wheeler Gresham, Benjamin Youngblood, and Robert Williamson; 1814, John Dease and William J. Hamilton; 1818, John Williams, Samuel Davis, and John Davis; 1819, Thomas Bilbo, Stephen Bradford, Archibald McManus, and Phillip Howell; 1820, Daniel Pickett, William Starks, and Daniel McInnis; 1822, George Davis, Sr., and Peter Fairley, Sr.; 1823, Thomas Bilbo; 1824, Stephen Bradford, John Fairley, and Moses Ward; 1826, William Starks and Joseph Morris.

Justices of the Peace. 1812, Malcolm Monroe, George Davis, and Moses Collins; 1813, George Farragut and Benjamin Lanier; 1815, Walter Denny and Charles Holland; 1818, Walter Denny, Henry Fletcher, Richard Brashiers, Valentine Delmas, and Peter Fairley; 1819, James Hubbard; 1820, Thomas Hubbard, Perry King, and Daniel Pickett; 1822, Neal Little and William C. Seaman, 1824, Walter Denny, Charles S. Holland, John Brewer, Ellis Fairbanks, William C. Seaman; 1827, Thomas I. Tucker, William Graham, Edmund Moss, and Allen McLendon.

Sheriffs (Note: The naming of more than one year does not mean a continuous term, but that commissions were found for each of these years). 1812, 1814, Perry King; 1817, John Brewer, Jr.; 1819, 1821, 1823, Edward Williamson; 1824, Bartholomew Childress.

FIRST REPORT ON LAND CLAIMS, 1814

The first report on record concerning the lands in what is now Jackson and George Counties has the dates 1814–1815, but, according to the petitions already given, the contents of this report did not become known to the settlers themselves till a much later date. Also, another factor which would have been disturbing if they had known was that there was no recommendation as to whether or not any of these titles should be confirmed.

The names of the claimants have been rearranged into alphabetical order. In most cases it has been possible to add the description of section, township, and range, which surveys made possible about 1830. (Since all townships are South and all ranges West, these are not added. See maps.)

It will be noted that many section numbers are above the usual 36. This was caused by the boundaries having been established before the surveys were made and it was easier for the surveyors to lay off irregular sections than to designate a claim

BEFORE HAWKINS, P.J., ROBERTSON AND SULLIVAN, JJ.

SULLIVAN, JUSTICE, FOR THE COURT:

Michael Graham and Adrienne Klasky Graham were married in 1980. In 1986, Adrienne received a divorce from Michael on the grounds of irreconcilable differences and was awarded custody of the couple's two sons.

Michael's family said that Michael changed in personality after the divorce. Michael's father developed aneurysms of the head and stomach in September of 1988. Michael would visit his father in the hospital and would talk to him but he would not talk to the rest of the family. He became withdrawn. His mother described Michael as arrogant and angry during the three-year period after the divorce.

On Christmas of 1988, Michael's family gathered at his parents' home located next door to Michael's. His three brothers and their families were all there since that Christmas would be his father's last. Mrs. Graham went next door to Michael's and asked him to come join the family. Michael told her that he did not have the time; he was too busy.

Michael's brothers, Wayne, John, and Charles, noticed the change in Michael. He became withdrawn and rejected his family and friends. Once, Michael and his young nephews started throwing rocks at each other and Michael went into the house and called the police.

Michael was represented by several lawyers during and after the divorce. Michael hired attorney Donald Sigalas to represent him in the divorce proceeding and in subsequent proceedings. Sigalas had known Michael for most of Michael's life. Sigalas also noticed a change in Michael after the divorce. According to Sigalas, he became withdrawn.

FindACase™ | MICHAEL DAVID GRAHAM v. STATE OF MISSIS... http://m

http://ms.findacase.com/research/wfrmDocViewer.aspx/xq/fac.1991...

Michael hired attorney Richard Hamilton in October of 1987 to file a petition to try to get Michael visitation with his children. Adrienne responded by filing a counter-petition asking that Michael be held in contempt for unpaid child support and asking that the amount of child support be modified. Before a hearing was held on the matter, the judge met with the attorneys and indicated what he felt was a proper amount of child support. When Hamilton relayed this to Michael, Michael told him that he did not want Hamilton to represent him any more. During Hamilton's representation of Michael, Michael expressed anger toward his former wife and her father. In fact, he threatened their lives.

Sigalas filed a petition on behalf of Michael asking that Adrienne be held in contempt for refusing Michael his visitation rights. In a hearing on this matter, the court held that Adrienne's was not a willful violation. Sigalas also represented Michael when Adrienne filed a petition asking that Michael be held in contempt for nonpayment of child support. Michael, in that instance, was held to be in contempt.

Sigalas knew of one instance where Michael had hit Adrienne. That occurred one day when Michael went to Adrienne's to pick up the children and Adrienne refused him visitation. They argued, Adrienne slapped Michael, and he hit her.

Adrienne asked the court for a protective order on two occasions. Michael would show up unannounced at Adrienne's. He also made threatening phone calls to Adrienne. The court issued a protective order and enjoined Michael from harassing Adrienne. The second time Adrienne asked for a protective order, Michael was sentenced to serve ninety days in the Adult Detention Center. Michael actually served thirty days of that sentence. Adrienne and her two sons eventually moved in with her parents because she was afraid of Michael. Adrienne worked for her father at Brumfield's Department Store in Pascagoula as a merchandise manager and buyer.

On April 3, 1989, Michael was served with process. He was ordered to appear in the Jackson County Chancery Court on May 5, 1989, to show cause as to why he should not be held in contempt as alleged by the complaint filed by Adrienne.

On April 4, 1989, two of Michael's brothers, Wayne and Charles, went to the courthouse and signed papers to have Michael picked up on a lunacy charge so that he could be evaluated. Michael was never picked up on the charge.

On the morning of April 7, 1989, Adrienne worked on some orders at home until she left for work around 10:00 a.m. On her way to work, she dropped her mother off at the beauty shop on Jackson Avenue.

Adrienne stopped at a traffic light on Jackson and Pascagoula Streets. Witnesses stopped at the light saw a gray Dodge pickup headed in a westerly direction coming up in the eastbound lane. The truck stopped beside Adrienne's car and witnesses saw the driver pick up a gun and point it at the car. The witnesses heard a shotgun blast and saw the glass in the car windows shatter.

The truck then drove off and turned south on Pascagoula Street. Two of the witnesses, Robert Auth and Craig Taylor, who were in a van owned by Jackson County Maintenance, after seeing that there was nothing they could do to help, went to see if they could find the truck. They saw the truck at the light on Convent Street. They took down the license plate number and then returned to the scene of the shooting.

Another witness to the shooting, Joseph Bourgeois, wrote down a description of the truck and what he thought was the tag number. The witnesses identified Michael Graham as the driver of the truck.

Officer Eric Rayborn with the City of Pascagoula was on duty that morning. He was on Market Street when he was advised that a shot had been fired on Jackson Avenue close to Pascagoula Street. When he arrived on the scene, he saw a black Lincoln parked in the road heading west. He noticed that both of the front windows were broken out of the car. Inside the car, he saw a female sitting in the driver's seat with her head back against the headrest. She had a gun blast to her left temple. Four witnesses told Officer Rayborn what had happened. The woman's driver license identified her as Adrienne Graham.

Michael proceeded to the office of Donald Sigalas. Michael told Sigalas that he thought he had shot Adrienne. He said that it had happened on Market Street. Sigalas offered to take him to the police department. When they turned on Pascagoula Street, Michael said that he did not want to go that way, so Sigalas took him to the sheriff's department instead.

Detective Sergeant David Tucker of the Pascagoula Police Department heard on the police radio that the truck involved in the shooting had been located in front of Donnie Sigalas' office on Market Street. Tucker proceeded to Market Street and saw the pickup. Inside the truck on the front seat, he found an ax handle and a cartridge hull. He also saw the barrel of what he thought was a high-powered rifle on the floorboard in front of the bench seat. A towel was thrown over the butt of the gun and when he flipped the towel back, he saw that it was a shotgun. The gun was identified as a twelve gauge, Remington 1100, semiautomatic, serial number M269805V.

Officer James Hunter with the Pascagoula Police Department ran a check on the tag number of the truck located in front of Sigalas' office. The truck was registered in the name of Michael D. Graham.

John Michael Allen, a forensic scientist specializing in firearm and tool mark evidence, examined the shotgun hull in order to determine if it was fired from the shotgun found in the truck. He made test comparisons and gave as his opinion that the shotgun hull was indeed fired from the gun.

Dr. Paul McGarry, a forensic pathologist, performed an autopsy on Adrienne Graham. He determined that the cause of death was due to a shotgun wound to the head which entered the left temple and exited the right temple, massively disrupting her brain. He found two buckshot inside her head. She had extensive powder stippling around the entry wound indicating that the shot was at close range, from three to five feet.

Sergeant Glen Veil with the Pascagoula Police Department participated in taking a witness statement and fingerprinting Michael Graham. Sergeant Veil turned the fingerprints over to Lieutenant Hunter. Lieutenant Hunter lifted fingerprints from the shotgun. He sent those fingerprints along with the print card he had received from Sergeant Veil to the Mississippi Crime Lab.

Lonnie Arrinder, a fingerprint examiner with the Mississippi Crime Lab, was asked to compare latent prints with the known fingerprints of Michael Graham. He found that six fingerprints had been made by the same person whose fingerprints were on the card.

Michael Graham was indicted by the Jackson County Grand Jury in its April 1989 term. The indictment charged that he did unlawfully, wilfully, feloniously and of his malice aforethought, kill and murder Adrienne Klasky Graham on April 7, 1989. Graham's trial was conducted on October 9 and 10, 1989. The jury found Graham guilty of murder. He was sentenced by the court to serve a period of life in the custody of the Mississippi Department of Corrections.

On October 12, 1989, Graham filed a Motion for New Trial in which he contended that the court erred in denying his request at trial that the jury be instructed on the lesser-included offense of manslaughter. A hearing was held on the Motion on February 28, 1989, and the court overruled the Motion. Graham appeals the rejection of his manslaughter instructions.

LAW

Graham offered three jury instructions which would have allowed the jury to consider the lesser-included offense of manslaughter as an alternative to murder. The court refused to grant the instructions. Graham contends that the court erred in so refusing because the evidence supported a manslaughter instruction.

In order to determine whether a lesser-included offense instruction should be submitted to the jury, this Court has developed a test.

[A] lesser included offense instruction should be granted unless the trial judge - and ultimately this Court - can say, taking the evidence in the light most favorable to the accused, and considering all reasonable favorable inferences which may be drawn in favor of the accused from the evidence, that no reasonable jury could find the defendant guilty of the lesser included offense (and conversely not guilty of at least one essential element of the principal charge).

Gates v. State, 484 So. 2d 1002, 1004 (Miss. 1986) [quoting Harper v. State, 478 So. 2d 1017, 1021 (Miss. 1985)]. The evidence must warrant an instruction on the lesser-included offense before it can be granted. Stevens v. State, 458 So. 2d 726, 731 (Miss. 1984).

Miss. Code Ann. 97-3-35 (1972) deals with manslaughter committed in the heat of passion. That section reads, "The killing of a human being, without malice, in the heat of passion, but in a cruel or unusual manner, or by the use of a dangerous weapon, without authority of law, and not in necessary self-defense, shall be manslaughter."

"Heat of passion" has been defined by this Court as:

In criminal law, a state of violent and uncontrollable rage engendered by a blow or certain other provocation given, which will reduce a homicide from the grade of murder to that of manslaughter. Passion or anger suddenly aroused at the time by some immediate and reasonable provocation, by words or acts of one at the time. The term includes an emotional state of mind characterized by anger, rage, hatred, furious resentment or terror.

Mullins v. State, 493 So. 2d 971, 974 (Miss. 1986) [quoting Black's Law Dictionary, 650 (5th Ed. 1979)]. The passion felt by the person committing the act "should be superinduced by some insult, provocation, or injury, which would naturally and instantly produce, in the minds of ordinarily constituted men, the highest degree of exasperation." Barnett v. State, 563 So. 2d 1377, 1379 (Miss. 1990) [quoting Preston v. State, 25 Miss. 383, 387 (1853)].

The crime of murder requires premeditation or a deliberate design. Miss. Code Ann. 97-3-19 (1) (Supp. 1990). "Although our law has never prescribed any particular ex ante time requirement, the essence of the required intent is that the accused must have had some appreciable time for reflection and consideration before pulling the trigger." Blanks v. State, 542 So. 2d 222, 226-227 (Miss. 1989).

http://ms.findacase.com/research/wfrmDocViewer.aspx/xq/fac.1991...

If there is any evidence which would support a conviction of manslaughter, an instruction on manslaughter should be given. In Roberts v. State, 458 So. 2d 719 (Miss. 1984), the Court said that the defendant's statement "I didn't mean to do it baby, my baby" was a sufficient basis for a manslaughter instruction. Moreover,

The law of Mississippi is liberal on what constitutes manslaughter on the facts, and makes considerable allowance for the frailties of human passion; . . . There must not only be passion and anger to reduce a crime to manslaughter, but there must be such circumstances as would indicate that a normal mind would be roused to the extent that the reason is overthrown and that passion usurps the mind destroying judgment.

Windham v. State, 520 So. 2d 127, 127 (Miss. 1988) [quoting Calvin v. State, 175 Miss. 699, 703, 168 So. 75, 75 75 (1936)].

Michael Graham contends that the evidence supported a manslaughter instruction. Graham differentiates his situation from that where there is some sudden provocation. He says the provocation in his case was a slow kindling which began with the divorce and was fueled by the returns to court. The process with which he was served on April 3, 1989, four days before he shot Adrienne, was the last straw. Although he did not immediately do anything, Graham contends that he was acting in the heat of passion when he killed Adrienne which suspended the exercise of judgment which an ordinary, reasonable man would otherwise exercise. Graham did not testify himself at his trial. To support his contention, he relies on the testimony of the attorneys who represented him during the divorce proceedings and on the testimony of his family all of whom noticed a change in Graham after the divorce.

In rejecting Graham's argument, the court said that it was aware that domestic disputes cause hard feelings. However, the court was of the opinion that a long-standing domestic dispute was not grounds for a manslaughter instruction. We agree. There was no evidence in this case of a sudden provocation. In fact, one of Graham's attorneys said that Graham had threatened the lives of Adrienne and her father during previous proceedings. Using the test in Gates, supra, we can say that no reasonable jury could find Graham guilty of manslaughter.

CONVICTION OF MURDER AND SENTENCE OF LIFE IMPRISONMENT AFFIRMED.

Adrienne's Story

Adrienne Klasky, a daughter of a prominent family from Pascagoula, Mississippi, was a loving person destined for greatness. However, to the surprise of her friends and family, Adrienne married Michael David Graham in October, 1980 and soon gave birth to two sons.

Adrienne began telling friends that her husband had been emotionally and physically abusive to her not long after she became a mother but was embarrassed to come forward about the abuse since she and her family were well known in Pascagoula. Adrienne remained in the abusive marriage until she separated from her abuser nearly six years later.

Adrienne's estranged husband began stalking her, her family and friends relentlessly after the separation. Unfortunately at this time Mississippi did not have laws to protect women from stalking, nor was there a mandatory arrest law for misdemeanor domestic violence assault. Adrienne was finally able to obtain a protection order – one year after the separation and eight months after her divorce was final. The stalking became even more aggressive. Her life had turned into a nightmare of constant harassment from her ex-husband. She went to great lengths to try to avoid him. He threatened to kill her many times and she knew he had guns. At 33 and afraid to live alone, she and her two sons moved in with her parents. She knew for years that her abuser would kill her. She just didn't know when.

That day came on April 7, 1989. After years of stalking and harassing Adrienne, her abuser followed through on his promises to kill her. Adrienne sat in her vehicle at a red light in downtown Pascagoula, MS, when her ex-husband pulled up beside her door, pulled out a shotgun, and shot her at point blank range. Adrienne Klasky was killed instantly.

The entire community was in shock after this tragedy. How could something like this happen to one of it's citizens? Why were there no laws on the books that made stalking a criminal and prosecutable offense? How could Adrienne die after fighting so hard to live? Outrage ran rampant in Pascagoula, along the Mississippi Gulf Coast, the state and the nation. Criminal justice officials and law makers fought to make drastic changes to protect women and Mississippi enacted its first stalking law in 1992.

On October 10, 1989 Adrienne's abuser and killer was sentence to life for her murder. He was granted a parole hearing on three (3) separate occasions and each were denied. He was then was transferred on April 4, 2004 to the Governor's mansion to serve as a trusty. On July 19, 2008, the unthinkable happened. Gov. Haley Barbour commuted the killer's life sentence, effectively setting him free on parole through an indefinite suspension of his sentence. Gov. Barbour did not contact the parole board or any of Adrienne's friends or family prior to his decision.

Friends, family, victim advocates, criminal justice officials, law enforcement officers, legislators elected local officials and the Gulf Coast Women's Center for Nonviolence pleaded with the governor through calls and letters to reverse his decision to release Adrienne's killer. This was to no avail and to this day Gov. Barbour has never personally responded to any of the pleas, the family nor the media.

Adrienne's story represents the real fear that domestic violence victims possess on a daily basis. The Gulf Coast Women's Center for Nonviolence understands the need to provide a safe space for victims to seek solace, support and advocacy to make a clean and safe break from their abusive homes. Adrienne's House is this safe space. We are honored to be able to provide shelter and services to victim's in Adrienne's name and highlight the fight she fought to free herself from abuse. She made the difficult choice to leave her abusive marriage and opened the door for many individuals from this community to do the same.

Mississippi's Governor Releases Michael David Graham

Michael Graham basically blew his ex-wife's head off with a shotgun at close range in 1989, and now his sentence has been commuted by the governor. From the Mississippi Press:

Convicted killer's release triggers community anger

Nancy Northern said Friday that she's outraged her aunt's killer is being released from prison today -- courtesy of Gov. Haley Barbour -- after he served only 19 years of a life sentence. The governor this week commuted 54-year-old Michael David Graham's sentence for murdering Northern's aunt, Adrienne Klasky Graham. Graham has been incarcerated since 1989 and has been a trusty at the governor's mansion for the last eight years. "I've written a letter to Haley Barbour telling him that he should stay in prison," Northern said. "He ruined my family and now the governor is giving him a second chance. No one gave my aunt a second chance. He took her away from us -- her father, her mother, her children, my mother, all of us."

When contacted Friday and told of Klasky's family and the community being outraged over the governor's decision, Pete Smith, spokesman for Barbour, declined to comment, saying, "We've released all of the information we are going to." There are no restrictions on where Graham can live in the state, said Suzanne Singletary, director of the communications division at the Mississippi Department of Corrections. Klasky's family has heard rumors of Graham planning to live in Hinds County, but Singletary said the state agency does not disclose relocation destinations for inmates. Smith said Thursday that Graham will not live in Jackson County, but was unsure of the convicted felon's plans. Singletary said details of Graham's commuted sentence are still being worked out. "He will have to check in with parole officers once he's released as if he's on parole," Singletary said. "He'll always be a convicted felon. That won't change." Singletary called Graham's commuted sentence "an indefinite suspended sentence."

"It can be revoked," she said. "It all depends on his good behavior." Graham shot his ex-wife at close range with a 12-gauge shotgun as she sat in her car at a traffic signal at the intersection of Jackson Avenue and Pascagoula Street on April 7, 1989. He left the scene, but later turned himself in to authorities at the urging of his attorney, Don Sigalas. The couple had been divorced for three years and she alleged he was stalking and threatening her regularly. Jamie Hunter retired from the Pascagoula Police Department in June. As a young detective, Hunter was one of the first officers to arrive at the scene. He said Klasky's murder still haunts him. "It's one of the most gruesome I've ever seen," said the 32-year law enforcement officer. "I still remember that day vividly." Hunter said when he arrived, Klasky was still sitting in the driver's seat of her vehicle. Graham had pulled into the oncoming lane and fired from the right side of his truck into the driver's side of her car. The shot struck Klasky in the left temple, killing her instantly. "It was at close range," Hunter said. "A shotgun blast to the head. It was gruesome." Hunter said Klasky's father, Lyle, arrived on the scene and had to be consoled by officers. He was owner of then-Brumfield's Department Store and was just across the street from where his daughter was killed. "It was very emotional," Hunter said. "It's a mistake to let him out of jail."

Hunter said the incident was difficult for the entire community on many levels.

"People thought we could indict him on a capital murder charge because it was premeditated," Hunter said, adding that he believes Graham planned his ex-wife's murder. "But that was not the way the law was written then. We charged him with what we could at the time. I wish we could have charged him with capital murder. I think he'd stalked her that day with the purpose of executing her -- that's exactly what he did -- execute her."

Northern described Klasky as a kind, gentle woman who loved to laugh. "She was so funny," Northern said. "We used to make brownies together. She was a wonderful woman. He ruined my family. He should not be allowed to feel the sunshine, get an ice cream cone or see a rainbow. He should stay in prison for life like he was supposed to." Graham has appeared before the state parole board three times since his incarceration, but was unsuccessful in his release attempts. Northern said she and other family members testified at those hearings that he should not ever be let out of prison. Smith said Thursday he's unsure if Barbour consulted the parole board before making the decision to release the convicted felon.

"He killed her in cold blood," Northern said. "He shot her in the face. Even if he's been a model prisoner, he does not deserve to be released."

Hunter agreed with Northern.

"Some crimes that people commit do not deserve a second chance," Hunter said. "This was one of them."

The Mississippi Pardons

By BOB HERBERT

Gov. Haley Barbour of Mississippi has to decide whether to show mercy to two sisters, Jamie and Gladys Scott, who are each serving double consecutive life sentences in state prison for a robbery in which no one was injured and only $11 was taken.

This should be an easy call for a law-and-order governor who has, nevertheless, displayed a willingness to set free individuals convicted of far more serious crimes. Mr. Barbour has already pardoned four killers and suspended the life sentence of a fifth.

The Scott sisters have been in prison for 16 years. Jamie, now 38, is seriously ill. Both of her kidneys have failed. Keeping the two of them locked up any longer is unconscionable, grotesquely inhumane.

The sisters were accused of luring two men to a spot outside the rural town of Forest, Miss., in 1993, where the men were robbed by three teenagers, one of whom had a shotgun. The Scott sisters knew the teens. The evidence of the sisters' involvement has always been ambiguous, at best. The teenagers pleaded guilty to the crime, served two years in prison and were released. All were obliged by the authorities, as part of their plea deals, to implicate the sisters.

No explanation has ever emerged as to why Jamie and Gladys Scott were treated so severely.

In contrast, Governor Barbour has been quite willing to hand get-out-of-jail-free cards to men who unquestionably committed shockingly brutal crimes. The Jackson Free Press, an alternative weekly, and Slate Magazine have catalogued these interventions by Mr. Barbour. Some Mississippi observers have characterized the governor's moves as acts of mercy; others have called them dangerous abuses of executive power.

The Mississippi Department of Corrections confirmed Governor Barbour's role in the five cases, noting that the specific orders were signed July 16, 2008:

• Bobby Hays Clark was pardoned by the governor. He was serving a long sentence for manslaughter and aggravated assault, having shot and killed a former girlfriend and badly beaten her boyfriend.

- Michael David Graham had his life sentence for murder suspended by Governor Barbour. Graham had stalked his ex-wife, Adrienne Klasky, for years before shooting her to death as she waited for a traffic light in downtown Pascagoula.
- Clarence Jones was pardoned by the governor. He had murdered his former girlfriend in 1992, stabbing her 22 times. He had already had his life sentence suspended by a previous governor, Ronnie Musgrove.
- Paul Joseph Warnock was pardoned by Governor Barbour. He was serving life for the murder of his girlfriend in 1989. According to Slate, Warnock shot his girlfriend in the back of the head while she was sleeping.
- William James Kimble was pardoned by Governor Barbour. He was serving life for the murder and robbery of an elderly man in 1991.

Radley Balko, in an article for Slate, noted that none of the five men were given relief because of concerns that they had been unfairly treated by the criminal justice system. There were no questions about their guilt or the fairness of the proceedings against them. But they did have one thing in common. All, as Mr. Balko pointed out, had been enrolled in a special prison program "that had them doing odd jobs around the Mississippi governor's mansion."

The idea that those men could be freed from prison and allowed to pursue whatever kind of lives they might wish while the Scott sisters are kept locked up, presumably for the rest of their lives, is beyond disturbing.

Supporters of the Scott sisters, including their attorney, Chokwe Lumumba, and Ben Jealous of the N.A.A.C.P., have asked Governor Barbour to intervene, to use his executive power to free the women from prison.

A spokeswoman for the governor told me he has referred the matter to the state's parole board. Under Mississippi law, the governor does not have to follow the recommendation of the board. He is free to act on his own. With Jamie Scott seriously ill (her sister and others have offered to donate a kidney for a transplant), the governor should move with dispatch.

The women's mother, Evelyn Rasco, told The Clarion-Ledger of Jackson, Miss.: "I wish they would just hurry up and let them out. I hope that is where it is leading to. That would be the only justified thing to do."

http://www.nytimes.com/2010/10/16/opinion/16herbert.html?_r=0&...

An affidavit submitted to the governor on behalf of the Scott sisters says: "Jamie and Gladys Scott respectfully pray that they each be granted a pardon or clemency of their sentences on the grounds that their sentences were too severe and they have been incarcerated for too long. If not released, Jamie Scott will probably die in prison."

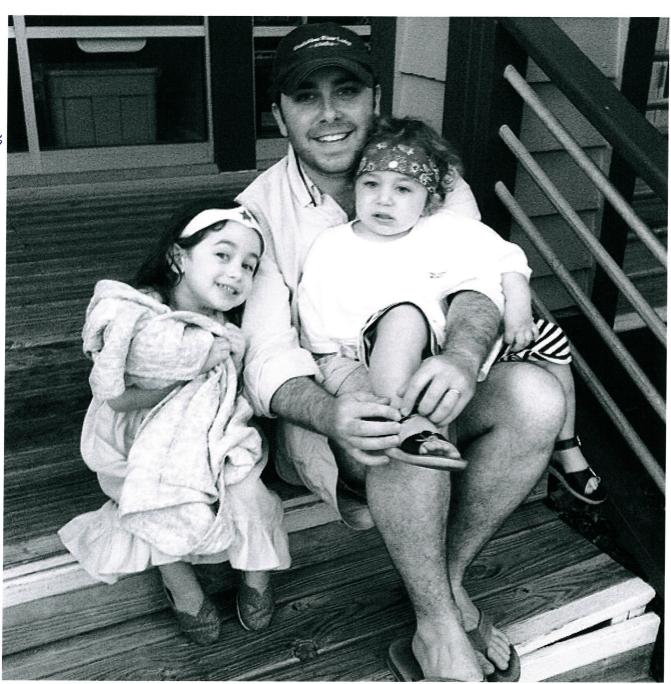

As they are both serving double life sentences, a refusal by the governor to intervene will most likely mean that both will die in prison.

Pascagoula, Mississippi --

PASCAGOULA CITY LIBRARY

HISTORY OF THE LONGFELLOW HOUSE

Pascagoula, Mississippi

The Longfellow House was built in 1850 by Pascagoula carpenters for Mr. and Mrs. Graham, slave traders from New Orleans, Louisiana. Mrs. Graham was a notorious character, and the few old people living who remember her, say her history would be better forgotten. These people are the ones who know of her cruelty to her slaves, whom she beat and kept in chains. A neighbor of Mrs. Graham's, is said to have found a runaway slave one day crawling by his fence, all beaten by his mistress' hand. Anyone doubting that the slaves in this house were ill-treated, has only to look on the third story for blood stains, which still remain on the floor.

After her second marriage, Mrs. Graham continued to live in the house, shocking her neighbors by her violent temper, until about 1878 when she married again. (No one seems to know what happened to the first two husbands, but apparently they died normal deaths.) She went to Chicago with Mr. Watson, her last husband, where she was robbed and deserted by him.

She went to Chicago with Mr. Watson, her last husband, where she was robbed and deserted by him.

From the famous Mrs. Graham the house went to Captain Muse, who did not make it his home, but rented it to various people. One of these was a Mr. Brown who professed to be responsible, respectable and well-educated, and on these credentials opened a girl's school in the house. Most of the town's young ladies attended the school and many of them left their names scratched on the window panes of the third story, where they can be seen today. However, Mr. Brown's success was cut short when it was learned that he was a renegade priest who had joined the Episcopal Church as a minister. He was soon found out and dismissed. Of course, the young ladies withdrew from the school and Mr. Brown immediately left town owing many debts.

The ownership of the house then passed to Mr. Delanc of Maine,

The ownership of the house then passed to Mr. Delano of Maine, who was as notorious as Mrs. Graham had been. Mrs. Delano was very wealthy and Mr. Delano enjoyed drinking up her interest and causing her much trouble by his spells of drunkenness. One day, a neighbor passed by and helped save the baby whom he was dangling out of one of the windows by one foot in one of his drunken sprees. Mr. Delano mortgaged most of his wife's possessions, and then the house went to Captain Buskin of Moss Point, Mississippi. Captain Buskin took over the house in 1886 and around 1888 sold it to Mrs. O'Fallen of St. Louis, Missouri. However, she never came to the house but had her nephew, Arthur Thorton of Virginia, manage the house. Some years later, Mrs. O'Fallen sold "Bellvue" to Mr. W. A. Pollock of Greenville, Mississippi and New Orleans, Louisiana. It is interesting to know that both Captain Buskin and Mr. Thorton had violent deaths. The captain was lost at sea in one of his own ships and Mr. Thorton fell down an elevator shaft.

History of the Longfellow House

It was during the time that Mr. and Mrs. Pollock owned the house, the longest that it belonged to one family, from approximately 1902 to 1938, that the house was named "Bellvue". Mr. Pollock was a plantation owner and banker and while he owned "Bellvue", it saw its happiest days. Mr. Pollock had moved to New Orleans where his two daughters were presented to New Orleans society and considered to be outstanding beauties of the day. After the younger daughter married, Mr. Pollock bought "Bellvue". The house, furnished with the Pollock's beautiful furniture, was the scene of many house parties made up of people from New Orleans. The two guest houses on either side of the house were usually filled with visitors. After the death of Mr. and Mrs. Pollock, Miss Pollock inherited the house, and from her it went to her sister, Mrs. Moore who sold it to Mayor Canty in 1938. It was later sold to Ingalls Shipbuilding Corporation which made the Longfellow House into a famous tourist resort.

The Longfellow House is probably one of the most majestic of the Ante-bellum homes along the Mississippi Gulf Coast. Bellvue (as it was formerly called) or Longfellow House has stood on the shore of the Gulf of Mexico for over one hundred years. The above facts of history concerning it have become obscured in romance and legend and it is extremely difficult to separate the facts from figments of the imagination.

It was shortly after the house was built that Henry Wadsworth Longfellow was supposed to have visited Pascagoula and stayed at the house. There is some doubt as to whether he wrote "The Building of the Ship" at Pascagoula, but a number of our older citizens insist that he did. Be that it may, almost everyone believes that Longfellow wrote the poem here as it has the line "from Pascagoula's sunny bay" in the poem's content.

Brenda,

William was Sarah's father. She was born Dec 16, 1816 and died Oct 29, 1899 in Georgiana, Al. Her husband was Rev. Stephen Fatherly Pilley, born July 4, 1805 in Edgecombe Co., N. C., and died Nov. 12, 1873 in Georgiana, Al. I assume they were married in Moss Point, Ms. about 1833.

Hi Renee,

Sherry said to contact you as you may be able to assist with my family tree. I have a family tree that my mother's uncle compiled. His daughter mailed a copy to me. I have verified a lot of the information but have found a few discrepancies. I haven't worked on the tree for a while but I plan on starting up again and will send you what I have very soon.

Thank you, Mina Huguet

PASCAGOULA LIBRARY
GENEALOGY COLLECTION
DO NOT CIRCULATE

Cithy James Vider, TX

Dear Jean.

I have finally sent my charts. I have not had much time this year to devote to my own family tree since I took on the Librarian's position. What I have you probably already know. In fact, you probably know more about the Graham's and Parker's than I do.

There are several families in Southeast Texas that are researching those surnames but I can't seem to connect with them. I think one of them has the family Bible.

No one wants to share - Cantunderstand it.

As for your Jones County Who Married Whom....
I read in your books where Jesse C. Mott had a pre-nuption agreement in 1852 to Harriett Evans of Clarke Co.--must have been his second marriage. I did not see it listed in your workbook sheets that you sent me.

Also, some time ago I came across a querie that said that Abraham Mott was married to Rebecca (Duvall) and they had Edith b 1798 Ga who m'd Sikes and also Jesse C. b 1802 Ga whnxxxxx I cenotected code cected infancamentromxbutxIxxilixkaepxbankingx It was written by Bettye J. Gilbert, 3029 Oak Valley Drive, Jefferson City, Missouri 65101. Write her. She might be able to help. Notice that Margaret E. (Mott) Hensarling named children Abraham and Rebecca, so it could be that she too is a child of Abraham.

Let me know how above turns out.

Also, I am just about ready to spend the rest of the society's money for books. I will wait till the fall though until things slow down around here. I want more of your books., when will the Jones co marriages be ready for publication? No need to answer that specifically, but next time I hear from you jot down the date for me.

Sincerely.

GRAHAM, Rebecca widow of GRAHAM, Elijah IWC 7 219

Mr. William H. Graham 537 West 20th Street, Houston Heights, Houston, Texas

My dear Mr. Graham:

Your letter of March 12th addressed to the Veterans's Administration has been referred to this office for reply.

Filed in the pension record of Rebecca Graham, widow of Elijah Graham, is an affidavit made by Rebecca Graham, February 11, 1895, in which she stated that Elijah Graham was born in 1803, near Faitsville (Fayettesville), North Carolina.

The record does not contain the names, dates, and places of birth of their children.

In compliance with your request we are returning to you the newspaper clippings and the notice of denial of application for old age assistance enclosed in your letter.

Yours very truly,

VANCE RUSSELL,

WASHINGTON

March 8, 1938.

- Mr. William H. Graham, 537 W. 20th St. Heights, Houston. Texas.

Dear Sir:

I have your letters of February 28, 1938, in which you request the military record of your grandfather, Eligha Graham, said to have lived near Savannah, Ga., and to have served in the Army about the year 1820.

The records show that one Higha Graham, age or place of birth not shown, was enrolled October 25, 1838, place not shown, for three months; was mustered into service Oct. 25, 1838 at Traders Hill, Ga., as a private of Capt. Lasseter's Company, Floyd's Georgia Mounted Militia (Florida War), and was mustered out with the company and honorably discharged the service as a private January 24, 1839 at Fort Henderson, Ga.

As it is stated that your grandmother received a pension on account of the military service of your grandfather, it is thought that information relative to the place of birth of your father may be obtained from the Veterans Administration, this city, and inquiry relative thereto should be so addressed.

Very truly yours,

Subject: Fairley/Graham Family

Hi Renee,

Here's what I have on the Fairley/Graham family. It's not much because I have not been able to find anything past my Great grandmother:

My mother was Winifred Fairley Roberts.

Her mother was Lottie Fairley (1902-1924.)

Her mother was Lenora J. Fairley (5-28-1879 thru 11-6-1958.) She married Archabald Hezecia Fairley. (Lenora was cousins to Archabald so had the same last name.)

Her parents were John Archibald Fairley (11-3-1854 thru 1-31-1894) and Mollie Graham. Unfortunately, I have no information on Mollie. I do show a Margaret Graham (1839-??) who married James G. Roberts (1832-1910,) on my Grandfather's side of the family, that could be related. Her parents were Joseph (1783-???)& Sarah Graham (1805-???.) That's all I have on Graham. There's more on the Fairley side that I need to research further but don't want to overwhelm you. I have an old Fairley family tree that I can copy and send you. I have written all over it, but it's still ledgible. Let me know if you'd like me to do that. In the meantime, can you please see what you can find out on Mollie Graham? Thanks!

DEAR JEAN

MONTHS AGO I COPIED YOU NAME IN RELATION TO SOME WAYNE CO MS GRAHAM LINES. I WAS SURE IF IT RELATED TO MY GRAHAM'S' IN NEWTON CO MS. THERE WERE A LOT OF COMMON NAMES. IT LOOKS MORE AND MORE, LIKE THESE GRAHAMS WERE SOME HOW RELATED.

MY ALEXANDER GRAHAM BORN 1782NC MARRIED CYNTHIA PARKER. HE IS FOUND LIVING IN NEWTON CO MS FROM 1840 TO HIS DEATH. IN 1830 HE IS IN RANKIN CO WITH ANTHONY 6 PRE 1765NC. ANTHONY ALSO GOES TO LIVE OUT HIS LIFE IN NEWTON CO MS. ANTHONY LEFT NC ABOUT 1815 WITH ROBERT AND ZACKARIAH. ANTHONY. ROBERT AND ZACKARAIH SHOW UP IN WAYNE CO MS.

IT LOOKS LIKE MY ALEXANDER IS LIVING IN CONECUH CO ALA IN 1820. HIS MOTHER IN LAW IS LIVING IN THE NEXT CO MONROE IN 1830 CENSUS. HIS MOTHER IN LAW TABITHA PARKER IS LIVING WITH HIM IN THE 1850 CENSUS.

MY PROBLEM IS THAT ANTHONY AND ALEXANDER LIVE CLOSELY TOGETHER AFTER 1830. IT SEEMS THAT THEY SHOULD BE RELATED. I THOUGHT POSSIBLE BROTHERS. THEN IT WAS SUGGESTOTHAT ALEX. MIGHT BE THE ALEX SON OF ALEXANDER (SQUIRE) GRAHAM BORN 1763 SQIURE IS POSSIBLE FOUND IN SUMNER TN IN 1820. SUMNER TN IS WHERE NATHANIEL PARKER DESCENDANTS LIVED. POSSIBLE RELATED TO MY ALEXANDER WIFE'S LINE. SQIURE ALEXANDER DOESN'T SEEM TO HAVE A SON NAMED ANTHONY.

MY ALEXANDER 1782 HAS CHILDREN ?FEMALE. ?MALE. ?FEMALE. WILLIAM 1822. ELIZABETH. WINSTON R. ELENORA. ROBERT. ELMIRA. ANTHONY. LUCINDA. MARTHA. WILLIAM 1845. SARAH. JULIA ANN.

ALEX. SON WILLIAM 1822 CHILDREN CHRISTOPHER 1841. JESSIE EWIN. MARGARET. CYNTHIA ANN. DIANNA. LUCRESTIA. NANCY. ALEXANDER CLARK. GEORGE KEITH. EMILY/EMMA. ANTHONY G J

ALEX. DAU JULIA HAS CHILDREN WILLIAM ANTHONY. CYNTHIA E. MARY LEAH. THOMAS A. LENDRAD. EDITH MAY. LONIE I. JONATHAN ALEXANDER. TILDA JANE. BETTIE

CAN YOU HELP ME? WAS THE GRAHAM LINE YOUR? I SEEM TO RECALL THAT OTHERS HAD HELP AND SUBMITTED INFO FOR THEIR LINE. I DIDN'T WRITE DOWN THE NAME OF THE BOOK. I DIDN'T THINK THAT THESE WERE RELATED TOW MY ALEXANDER AND ANTHONY AT THE TIME. I WISH I RECORD MORE INFO FROM YOUR BOOK THAT DAY. I HAVE COLLECTED MANY BIT AND PIECE FOR THESE GRAHAMS. I DID FIND SOME THAT WAS NOT IN YOUR BOOK. OLD ANTHONY BORN PRE 1765 WIFE WAS ASSENITHA HUFFMAN SHE DIED 20 AUG 1843. A YOUNG ANTHONY MARRIED NAMEY BARNES, YOUNG ANTHONY DIED IN POLK CO TX. IT POSSIBLE THAT YOUNG ANTHONY WAS THE SON OF ROBERT AND CHRISTIAN K. GRAHAM.

WELL THAT ENOUGH FOR NOW. I THINK I HAVE SEEN YOUR NAME ELSE WHERE? I SEEM TO RECALL THAT YOU WROTE ANOTHER BOOK ON MS (HISTORY/GEN).

SINCERELY

Hi, Renee. During the past few days, I've exchanged E-mail messages with Francis Smith of Mobile, whose great grandfather, Elias Bonnell Smith, married Mary Adell Williams, a granddaughter of William Crockett Graham through his daughter Elizabeth's marriage to Phillip Freeman Williams.

Included in the family listings which Smith sent me was the text of a notarized statement dated March 2, 1914. This statement read "I am a great, great grandson of Savannah Graham, mother of William Graham, father of Elizabeth Graham, mother of Idell (sp) William, wife of Barnwell (sp) Smith. It was conveyed to me by Eseneth Barrick, daughter of Grover Cleveland Smith, that his great, great grandmother (Savannah Graham) was full blooded Choctaw Indian. Savannah Graham was therefore the great grandmother of Adell (Graham) Williams, who was the second wife of Elias Bonnell Smith." The statement was signed "Luke W. Conerly, Notary Public, Gulfport, MS."

Grover Cleveland Smith was a son of Elias Bonnell Smith and Mary Adell Williams.

Have you heard this story before? I suspect it may be a variation of the tale told in the old handwritten note which alleges Susannah Ward 's descendancy from Pocahontas. There is one intriguing aspect of the notarized statement. After Melba Allen sent me a copy of the old note several years ago, my research related to Susannah Ward led me to exchange E-mails with several descendants of Turner Ward, who was named as Susannah's father in the old note. In those exchanges, I learned that some of Ward's descendants ended up in Mississippi, including a couple of Conerly families.

I would welcome your comments concerning Savannah Graham.

I'm continuing my electronic digging for descendants of William Crockett Graham. I was able to identify 67 grandchildren and, thus far, I've found just over 200 great grandchildren. My wife and I still plan to go go Greene County, GA in late July to pursue possible Graham connections there.

Have a happy day!

Some of the following information was obtained from the Works Progress Administration for Mississippi, Jackson Co., a state historical research project.

Born January 16, 1844, my pateral great, great grandmother, Susannah Graham was a heir to the estate of John Graham. Her home known as the "Old Faggard Home" stood on a tract of land that was originally a Spanish Grant of 318.37 acres and was settled by Jack Graham in 1813. Susannah Graham received 108 of the original 318.37 acres from John Graham, heir to Jack Graham as recorded in the quit claim deed dated August 23, 1875, Deed Book 1 Jackson County.

The "Old Faggard Home" was located about one mile west of the old Wade School (now the Community Center) and was standing at the time of the writing of the Works Progress Administration in 1930. It is no longer standing but during its time was known far and wide as a refuge for the traveler. It was said Andrew Jackson and his soldiers stopped at the home when Jackson rushed from Pensacola to New Orleans to fight Packenhem. It was said his soldiers camped there and that the General himself slept in what was then a new log home.

The home got it's name after the marriage of William E. Faggard to Susannah Graham, May 7, 1865, (performed by Rev. John Moody in Jackson County).

The WPA Cemetery List indicated that the Robinson Cemetery existed one mile west of Gautier. There has been no positive location or burial list found.

RODRIGUEZ-SEYMOUR CEMETERY

The Rodriguez-Seymour Cemetery is located on Puerto Drive, in The Gulf Hills residential development about 1 1/2 miles northwest of Ocean Springs in the SW/4 of Section 13, T7S-R9W in Jackson County, Mississippi. Among the descendants of the early Spanish may have been Juan Antonio Rodriguez who patented the land (Lot 5 of Section 13) where the cemetery is located in 1848. A land survey plat of Lot 5 by E. N. Ramsay, Jackson County Surveyor, in 1904 depicts a five acre tract in the NE/4 of Lot 5 which states "place for cemetery "and Picard property. This is the only reference found to this cemetery in the early Jackson county deeds. This cemetery is also known as the Old Spanish Cemetery. Tombstone inscriptions and other data provided by Ray L. Bellande, Dec. 1991.

ROBINSON CEMETERY

The Robinson Cemetery is located west side of Highway 613 and Wemberly, Escatawpa, Mississippi. Original tombstone inscriptions were compiled by Harry Wright, Mrs. J. E. Krebs, Mrs. A. G. Shampine, Miss Elizabeth Alberts, Mrs. James Estabrook, Mrs. Ted Von Sprecken and Mrs. Louis Von Sprecken, Mar. 24, 1970. Updated by Harry H. McDonald, Sr., 1994. (Requiem: Vol. III). This cemetery is also called the Ferrill Cemetery Extension. The cemetery was established by John Robinson but the land for the cemetery was actually deeded by the Roland Goff heirs.

Description:

Containing records for approximately 123 million Americans, the 1930 United States Federal Census is the largest census released to date and is the most recent census available for public access. The census gives us a glimpse into the lives of Americans in 1930, and contains information about a household's family members and occupants including: birthplaces, occupations, immigration, citizenship, and military service. The names of those listed in the census are linked to actual images of the 1930 Census.

THE THRICE-HAPPY DEAD.

O the dead the thrice happy dead; Honored is the earth that covers his head : Honored the flowers and the fragrance they shed Their language as plain as if they said Sweet peace to the dead, The thrice happy dead.

Honored the bird on it workles its lay. And swings in the air on the pearest spray As if at the spot it would so love to stay With its gladsome song it seems to say, hweet pears to the dead, The thrice happy dead.

Can not we too foin in the glad sweet strain. And rejoice that his heart is free from all pain; And remember that our loss is his happy gain; Can not we, too, gladly take up the refrain-Hare' peace to the dead, The thrice-happy dead.

O God forgive if impatient we be His loys to share and Thy glory to se If from the cares of this world we would flee (1) that some one to-day could say this of me,) Aweet peace to the dead, The thrice-happy dead

Furgive us - we fain would be fre But help us our Father our duty to do I hat the stars in our diadem may not be few And these words of us may be said and he true. Hweet peace to the dead The thrice happy dead.

Rev. Stephen F. Pilley.

LATE OF THE ALABAMA CONFER-ENCE, DECEASED.

MR. EDITOR: This good brother, whose name heads this article, died a few years ago, sustaining to his Conference, at the time, a superannuated relation; and from the memorial notice given of him in the minutes of that Conference, and also from a short blographical sketch published in your paper subsequent thereto, by Rev. J. W. Shores, I find a correct account was given_of him after he entered the ministry and became connected with the Conference. But as to his early history, his conversion and labors before he joined the Conference, and his untiring and ardent devotion to the cause which he had espoused, for the two or three first years of his ittnerant life, nothing was said; in consequence, I presume that nothing was known.

Will you allow me, even at this late date, to give a sketch of facts and incidents connected with this part of his history, and thereby suppry a defect which exists in those notices referred to. Lam the only preacher now living who knew him before his conversion, and was associated with him intimately for several years afterward. I was present when he was converted, and the next far took him into the church. I feet in the chair behind which I had stood while trying to talk to the people. Earnest prayers were offered for him and others who had approached. Here Mr. Pilley was converted. Here he consecrated himself to God and his cause. The next day I had service at the church; opened the door, and Mr. Pilley immediately came forward and gave me his hand and name, and he was enrolled as a probationer in the Methodiat Episcopal Church,

This church was called Graham's Church, and Bro, William Graham had been class-leader, but who unfortunately had been drowned a few weeks before, and to whose daughter Bro. Pilley was engaged to be married, and which was consummated soon after.

Such was the geographical shape and arrangement of the circuit that my colleague and I met every round. I informed him of the fact of the loss of the class-leader at this appointment, and told him of Bro. Pilley's conversion, etc., and intimated that a would not be surprised if he (Pilley) would not yet fill the place of leader, and that he had better see to it when he got down there. Said he: I will give that matter up to you, and on your next round, if you find he (Pilley) will fill the place, although a probationer, appoint him, as there are no others that would probably do.

So before I got to that appointment, on my next round, I heard that Pilley was married and preaching. The facts were these: As soon as he married he had family prayers in his mother-in-law's family, and he and old Bro. Graves met at the church every Sunday, and held divine service, he reading and commenting on some parts of the Holy Scriptures; and such was the character of these lectures that it was reported he could beat any of the preachers, and no doubt this was true in regard to many of us. I appointed him leader, and some time afterward, by the unanimous recommendation of his society, licensed him as an exhorter, and at the last Quarterly Conference of that year he obtained license to preach, if my memory is correct. He exercised as a local preacher until the fall of 1835, when he obtained a recommendation to the Annual Conference to join the traveling connection, which Annual Conference met in Tuscaloosa, Ala. Here his recommendation was presented; objections to his admission were urged

he some of the necessary nelect

ritory in eastern Mississippi, commencing at Dwire's ferry, on the Pascagoula river, in Jackson county, passing through that county into the Green county, thence through Perry into Wayne, thence into Clark, and through Jasper to Garlandsville, in Newton county, returning through the western part of Jasper into the corner of Covington, through Jones into the western portion of Perry, and thence through Hancock to Jackson, the starting-point. Bro. Pilley was on hand in due time, obtained board for his wife and child at 'Bro. Willis Holder's, on Red for Creek, in the lower part of the cir- air cuit, near the starting-point. Here has Bro. Pilley entered the itinerant college, to be absent from his family five weeks at a time-no chance, as is now, to come home during the entire round and when the round was made, but only a few days with his family, and while out riding or preaching every day, contending with swollen rivers and creeks, on Demany of which were no ferry-boats or bridges, consequently had to depend | Ch. on foot-logs upon which to convey over his wardrobe and library and traveling accouterments, and swim his horse, this, Mr. Editor, was itinerancy in earnest of the olden times. | ga " But, notwithstanding all the obsta- Hi. cles and privations that constantly loomed up before him, he never flinched or murmured, never missed an appointment when he could possibly get to it, pursued his studies faithfully, doing a great deal of his reading on horseback, improved constantly in preaching, universally beloved, and did a good work, so that the presiding elder (Bro. Elisha Calloway) was enabled to report him a good, safe case, at the next Confer-

At the close of that year our Conference was held in Mobile. Bro. Pilley was on hand before the Committee of Examination, who reported him up with his studies, and recommended his continuance on trial. At this Conference, presided over by Bishop Morris, when the appointments were announced, to my surprise it was again: A. C. Ramsey and Stephen Pilley, to the Cedar Creek circuit.

This circuit embraced a part of Monroe, Wilcox, Dallas, Lowndes and Butler counties, in Alabama. Bro. Pilley, as before, was prompt in getting to the circuit; and, after obtaining a boarding place for his family, went to work, as usual, did a good year's work, made many friends, and left this circuit one boy richer so he was converted, and the next | av took him into the church. I write this, Mr. Editor, for the benefit and satisfaction of his aged widow and large family of children, several whom are in the ministry, and This I do without their knowledge or - di ditation

At the Conference held in Tuecalows. Als., in the latter part of 1832. I was admitted on trial in that Conference, and appointed junior preacher on the Chickseawha circuit, in connection with Bro. Job Foster. preacher in charge. This circuit extended at that time from Washington Court-House, in Alabama, to near the coast on the Pascagoula river, in Jackson county, Miss.

On my first round on that circuit I met Mr. Pilley at the house of Father Wells, on the lower part of the circuit, spent a pleasant night with him, found him a man of intelligence, apparently gifted in convereation, and disposed to talk on the autject of religion. I asked him to accompany me the next day to my appointment, to which he readily consented. My appointment that day was at a private bouse-Sister Cumbus'. Here I observed Mr. Pilley appeared very attentive to what I had to say, and manifested some interest in the services, and which was more fully shown by his continuing with me, and going to my next appointment, six miles below, which was the extreme southern appointment on the circuit. We reached the neighborhood that evening. and were quartered at the house of an old friend and acquaintance of mine, Jesse Graves, who was then blind, but whose soul was filled with love and the fire of the Holy Choat He proposed that we have meeting or services of some kind that night at his house. And here let me say, Mr. Editor, that in those times where the prescher made his four week's rounds on his large circuit preaching generally every day in the week, and, when not preaching, riding, that it was no uncommon thing for him to have to preach also at night, and often in private houses The good brethren demanded it. Bo. in this case, old Uncle Jesse Graves! wishes must be attended to accord-Pakey. Mr. Pilley volunteered his services to go around and notify the community. A small congregation securitied in due time; the timid vocang preacher did the best he would, and at the close called for merciners; the first one who aptreached was my traveling compan- ley." Mr. Piliey, who knelt at my menuation was presented; onjections to his admission were urged by some of the preachers, principally the old ones. First, on the ground that he had a wife and child: secondly, that he had at one time in his life been connected with the theater, and was a great fiddler, loved fun and frolic, etc., but it was asked if he had been a drunkard, a profane man, a marderer, etc. No, nothing of this kind could be alledged against him. Well, has he been in the theater, or done anything wrong of this kind since he embraced religion? Not that we know of: but here's that wife and child coming in to tax the church, etc.

It was somewhat unfortunate for the good brother that there were very few. in the Conference who knew 'bim-Bro: T. Moody, Bra. Daniel Barlow, his presiding elder, and myself. Some discussion took place, mostly from the opposing wing of the Conference, Bro. Moody and Bro. Barlow advocating strongly his admission into the Conference. And now, Mr. Editor, don't charge me with egotism when I speak of my first speech that I had ever made in a Conference. I took the ground that some of our old brethren were certainly very inconsistent in opposing this brother because he had once been a sinner-had been an actor-whereas I had no doubt that they had once been sinners, probably very bad once, too, guilty of worse ains than playing the fiddle, or acting on the stage, and yet they professed to be changed, converted, their sins forgiven, but would not admit that the same divine power could be efficient in the conversion of Bro. Pilley. That he was a changed man, I had no doubt. And as to the wife and child, I did not think there was any sin in that; and if it was wrong to take a married man into the Conference, they ought to adopt the rule of forbidding-the preachers marrying at all; for I saw but little difference in taking one in already married, than to allow them the privilege to do so as soon as they chose afterward. In addressing the Bishop I recollect making this remark: "That if he thought me worthy of a circuit and colleague the next year I would as soon risk Bro. Pilley as any one on that floor untried." He was admitted, and when the appointments were read out by Bishop Soule, who presided in that Conference, it was: "Leaf River Circuit, A. C. Ramsey and Stephen Pil-

Bro. Pilley traveled the Belleville circuit in 1838, since which time I have not been as intimately associated with him as formerly; but of bis life and history after this his family and the church have them.

I shall only add that I met with him several times during the interval between my intimate connection with him and his death, and invariably found him the same quiet, reflecting, firm, conscientious Christian gentleman that he was in early life. Hoping and praying that the blessings of Almighty God may continue to rest upon his widow and children, and that the mantle of the father may have fallen upon his sons, and that they may wear it the with honor to his name, in honor to themselves and to their God whose cause they have espoused, I bid them farewell. A. C. RAMSEY.

My address is Gadsden, Ala. CAMDEN, ARK , Feb. 20, 1879.

Hi, Renee. I enjoyed meeting you during my recent visit to the Jackson County library. I appreciate the time you spent with Dick Graham and myself and your information was helpful.

I recall that you told me you'd seen the old Graham-Jones family bible and that it didn't mention Susanna Ward as the mother of the three Jackson County Graham brothers. However, I don't recall what you told me about the father. Was the father's name mentioned? If so, do you remember what it was?

I ask this question because yesterday I stumbled upon a lead which might lead toward information about the parents of William Crockett, Joseph and Laird Graham. I found a record that Joseph Graham married Winny Gooch in Greene County, GA in 1808. Previously, I'd found a RootsWeb posting by Roger Bohman of Salt Lake City naming this couple as the parents of Laird Crockett Graham, whom Bohman said was born in 1810. The 1820 Jackson County census listed Joseph as having a son of that age.

The 1850 Jackson County census listed Laird Graham as having been born in GA in 1785. The discovery of Joseph's marriage provides a GA location where I might look for information about the brothers' parents. If Laird was born in Greene County in 1785 and Joseph married there in 1808, that means the family remained in the area long enough to leave some traces.

There are a couple of pieces of evidence supporting the Greene County theory. Several years ago, I exchanged E-mail messages with Dale Grissom of Texas, who is descended from Laird Ware, an early Jackson County resident. He told me that Laird Graham wrote a letter of recommendation for Laird Ware when the latter applied for a pension. This implies that the two had some prior connection. Laird Ware's people came to Jackson County from Greene County, GA.

In addition, some time ago I exchanged e-mail messages with Melissa Mason of Bethlehem, GA, who is descended from Lairds who lived in Greene County. Since most Graham families named their sons William, Joseph and John, I've been searching for a connection explaining how the given name "Laird" sneaked into the farcily -- Laird Graham, William Crockett's son, Laird and Joseph's son, Laird Crockett.

Adding a little frosting to the Crockett cake, previously I found a family of Crocketts who lived in neighboring Jasper County, GA during the same time the Graham family could have lived in Greene County.

I've just finished reading The Scotch-Irish, a Social History, written in 1962 by James Graham Leyburn, who was at that time a professor of history at Washington and Lee University (an institution which, you may know, was founded by a William Graham). The book provides an explanation of why the Jackson County Grahams seemed reflectant to settle down in one place after arriving in America. The 1950 Jackson County census listed Joseph as born in PA in 1783 and Laird as born in GA in 1783. And yet they appeared during the early 1800's in Jackson County. Leyburn wrote that wanderlust was a characteristic of the Scotch-Irish. He quoted one historian as saying that "the Scotch-Irish never settled down until they'd moved at least three times." So this provides a possible explanation for the spasmodic southward migration of the Jackson County Grahams.

The fact that William Crockett Graham was a Methodist points to a family which resisted settling down quickly in a community. Leyburn wrote that the Scotch-Irish who settled in tight-knit Pennsylvania communities retained their allegiance to Presbyterianism, while those who migrated into less settled areas and mingled with other American pioneers often became Baptists or Methodists.

Sometime in the next few months, I hope to visit Greene County and see what I can find there. (Greene County is about a half-day's drive from Charlotte.) I'll keep you informed. If there's information in the old bible which might give me a lead as to what to look for in Greene County, please let me know.

I'm sending a separate message regarding William Crockett Graham's descendants. I recall you said you were descended from his son, Joseph.

Please keep in touch and I'll let you know if I learn more about the brothers' parents. After I complete this round of my Graham searches, I'll send all of my information to you. I've gone about as far as I can go with Laird's descendants and now I'm working on Joseph's line. After that's finished, I'll tackle the formidable task of tracing the remainder of William Crockett Graham's descendants. His fifty-nine grandchildren provide the potential for a lengthy list.

Ha√e a happy day!

RE: Jackson County Grahams

Hello, Renee.

Thanks for your response. I will appreciate any information you can send me.

Melba thought (and may still think) she found a male descendant of Laird Graham's son William, but I suspect she's confused among the several William Grahams of Jackson County. She found a descendant of a Henry Graham who was born in 1889, son of a William born in 1863. That William was the son of a John Graham, whom the census said was born in England. William, the son Laird Graham's son William, was born about 1867 and thus far, I've found no record of a marriage or children for him.

Currently, I'm attempting to contact a Leroy Graham, Jr., age 73, who lives in Memphis, TN. Laird's son William had a son named Lonzo who had a son named Leroy who was born abt 1908 in George County. One ancestry com family tree (undocumented, of course) claims Leroy died in Memphis in 1998. The 73-year old Leroy, Jr. might be a son.

My Graham file needs updating by incorporating more recent information I've discovered. After I revise the file, I'll send you a PDF file in the event you'd like to replace the one I gave you some years ago.

Concerning Greene County, GA, I'd guessed the Joseph Graham who married Winnie Gooch in 1808 in Greene County was the same Joseph Graham who was listed in the Jackson County censuses of 1850 and 1860. I'd made this incorrect assumption because Joseph and Winnie had a son named Laird Crockett Graham and that seemed to infer he belonged to the same Graham family as William Crockett Graham.

However, recently I exchanged E-mail with a descendant of Laird Crockett Graham and she has been to his father Joseph's grave in Bossier Parish, LA. So clearly, that's not the Joseph of Jackson County. I don't know where he's buried, but I suspect it might be in an unmarked grave (of which there are several) in the Graham Cemetery on the Old Graham Place on River Road, which (as of a couple of years ago) was occupied by one of Joseph's descendants, Mrs. Louise Mitchell.

Mrs. Mitchell doesn't seem much interested in family history, so we haven't learned anything from her.

Also, there's a new development related to the death information about Laird's son ( and my wife's great grandfather), John Wesley Graham. The family has long believed a tradition that he died during the Civil War and was buried in Cherokee County, AL. However, notes found by Ruffin Graham, Jr. after his father's death imply that John Wesley died about 1870 and "was buried near the river." That contradiction remains a mystery, which I'll expound upon further in a revised family tree.

Thanks for your interest and I welcome any information you can supply.

Hey Tom,

Sure I remember you. We have your research on the Grahams in our files....that was when you were thinking they came from Greene Co. Georgia. I'm glad you are still working on them and what an interesting turn of events, that Ruffin's DNA didn't match!!!

I'm working on a report for you on the descendants of William and Anne Lutoil Graham. And Frances is a girl and the one that I descend from! So far, I can't find that any of her three brothers ever had issue...but that will be backed up by the paperwork I'll send in a few days...I just didn't want you to think I'd forgotten you. I've been meaning to work on them, but working here I have to help OTHER people and don't have time to work on my own. So your request gave me a good excuse!! I've just have to work on it in between working on patrons that come in and we've been busy and my colleague has been out sick....so.....

Any luck with Melba Allen? She's a character. She said she'd found someone for the DNA....but I haven't heard back. If nothing turns up then I'll have to start working on that other Graham line you mentioned in your email....the "Joseph" line...remind me exactly how he comes down...I guess I'm getting him mixed up with my William's father Joseph.

Later,

Renee

Thanks for all your work on the Graham. Funny thing, my youngest son Nelson Hague, has been best friends for life with Guy Stricklin-whose mother is a Messer!!!

Subject: Jackson County Grahams

Hello, Ms. Hague

You may or may not remember my meeting you some years ago when you were very helpful when I visited the Jackson County Library seeking information about my wife's great-great grandfather, Laird Graham. At the time, I recall your telling me you were descended from Laird's brother, William Crockett Graham.

A new development has occurred in my pursuit of early Jackson County Grahams. I'm hoping you might be able to put me in touch with a living male descendant of either William Crockett Graham or Joseph Graham I'll explain why below.

A couple of years ago, I persuaded my wife's nephew, Ruffin Graham, Jr, to order a Y-DNA test in the hope that his results might help in efforts to identify the father of the three Jackson County brothers, William Crockett, Joseph and Laird Graham. My results in the McRae DNA project yielded numerous close matches and we hoped for the same with Ruffin.

To our surprise, he had no matches -- not even distant -- with any of the more than 200 Grahams in that family DNA project. His only close matches were with two Messers and a Ladnier. The Messer testers are descended from a Christian Sargent Messer who was born in PA about 1761. The Ladnier tester is descended from Christian Messer, one of the earliest settlers in Jackson County. Ruffin's DNA results suggest a non-parental event occurred associated with either a Messer or a Ladnier at some time in the past. There are circumstances which might explain either DNA match.

Joseph Graham of Jackson County was born in PA in 1783 according to the census of 1850. Christian Sargent Messer was born in PA about 1761. In 1749, A John Messer and a John Graham were both listed on the tax rolls of Little Cove in Franklin County, PA. In 1756 of that year, 49 of the cove's residents were massacred in an Indian raid. There's no mention of Messers in the cove after 1756 but the Grahams were still there. One could speculate that a young Messer male child became orphaned and was raised by a Graham family and took their surname in adulthood. That child could have been the father of the three Jackson County brothers. That's one possibility.

In the 1820 Jackson County census, Jacob and Peter Ladnier, descendants of the immigrant Christian Ladnier, were listed along with the Graham brothers. Laird was the closest to the Ladniers in the census listing. The non-parental event in that case would have involved an illicit hayloft encounter between a male Ladnier and Laird Graham's wife, resulting in the conception of my wife's great-grandfather, John Wesley Graham, who was born in 1832. That's a second scenario.

It's possible the common ancestor could have been pre-immigration, although thus far I've found nothing to support that contention. A Ladnier descendant in Florida traced his family back to the village of Seewis im Prattigau in Graubunden, Switzerland. Independently, a Messer researcher in North Carolina who did not know the Ladnier researcher traced their family back to the same village. Thus, it seems fairly likely that my wife's Graham family was Swiss rather than Scotch-Irish as they believed. I've looked for evidence that a Swiss Grimm family americanized their named to Graham but haven't yet found evidence of that.

If we can find a male Graham descendant of either William Crockett Graham or Joseph Graham, Ruffin and I will pay for a DNA test, which is easy and takes only a few minutes. (Swabs applied to the insides of the cheeks.) A male is necessary because the Y-DNA chromosome is passed down through the male line only.

If a male descendant of either William or Joseph had close matches to other testers in the Graham project, then the Jackson County non-parental event would seem the most likely. On the other hand, if the tester had a close match with Ruffin, that would suggest the non-parental event occurred prior to the brothers' arrival in Jackson County. This would point to the possibility of the PA scenario or an earlier unidentified non-parental event in Switzerland.

Incidentally, after my wife's oldest brother, Ruffin Graham, Sr., died, Ruffin, Jr. found a box where his father had stored notes pertaining to his family's relatives. Those notes mentioned kinship to descendants of both William Crockett Graham and Joseph Graham, seeming to confirm they were relatives of Laird.

If you happen to know of a living male descendant of either William Crockett Graham or Joseph Graham, I would appreciate your telling me how to get in touch with them. A male descendant of William Crockett would have to be descended from his son Joseph, who married Nancy Lyons. They had only one son, William, who married Annie Faggard, They had four sons, Charles, Francis, William and Edward. Hopefully, you might know of a descendant of one of these sons.

The best prospects for a descendant of Joseph Graham would be males who were sons of his son, John McDonald Graham, who is buried in the Graham cemetery on the Old Graham Place on River Road northeast of Vancleave. John McDonald's son Joseph Q. Graham had sons Nolan and Austin. As of about eight years ago, his son Steed had a living grandson named Ronald Graham, but I've lost track of him. John McD. also had sons named John Knox and Ernest.

Ruffin, Jr talked to a Richard Graham who lives on Monger Road not far from the Old Graham Place, only to learn he was adopted and thus not a DNA testing prospect.

Anything you can do to help would be much appreciated. If we find a tester, I'll keep you apprised of his tests results.

Thanks.

Dear Mrs. Edwards,

Your letter in response to my inquiry concerning the DEAR - GRAHAM lines is appreciated. The information you sent about the deaths of James Dear and his wife Margaret encourages me to make further search for the descendants of these. I had almost given up hope of finding them.

Since you have shown enough interest to answer my inquiry, I will now briefly outline my connection with the family and my present problem.

FIRST: my connection

I am Paul Crawford, son of William Preston Crawford, son of Henry Nelson Crawford, son of Benjamin Alexander Crawford, son of Jesse Crawford ( 1795 - 1869 )

The said Jesse Crawford married FLORA GRAHAM about 1815 in the area of Effingham and Screven Counties, Georgia. These came to Marion County, Mississippi about 1816. Also the parents of Flora Graham Crawford came to Marion County with most of their other children. The parents of the said Flora Graham Crawford were DOUGALD GRAHAM and FLORA____.

The said Dougald and Flora Graham with their family were in Richmond County, North Carolina in the 1780s and 1790s. They then moved to a place near the line of Screven and Effingham Counties, Georgia. One of their sons, John Graham, remained in Georgia where some of his descendants are living today. Also one of their daughters probably remained in Georgia.

One of the daughters of Dougald & Flora was MARGARET GRAHAM who married James Dear in Marion County 1820. This Margaret Graham therefore was a sister of my great great grandmother, Flora GRaham Crawford; hence my interest in the Dear family.

Now for James and Margaret Dear in particuler:

The 1830 and 1840 census records of Simpson County, MS show that they had sons and daughters. Their names are not found in the 1850 Mississippi census index. Therefore I do not know the names of their children.

James and Margaret are found in records of STRONG RIVER BAPTIST CHURCH 1830 through 1843

In 1860 census this couple was in RANKIN County. No children with them at that time. His age was 61; her age 66.

In 1867 James and Margaret Dear sold land in Rankin County. This is the latest record I have of them

By comparing the above notes with what you sent, my guess is that James and Margaret went to live with one of their children in Anderson County, Texas or somewhere in Louisiana with @nother child.

TWO PROBLEMS:

- 1. WHEN did James Dear die in Anderson County, Texas ?
- 2. WHERE did Margaret Dear die in Louisiana 1870.

I think there is an index for Louisiana 1870 census at Centroplex Library, Baton Rouge. Perhaps that will help. ?

A search of Anderson County, Texas telephone directories may locate some of the Dear family at this time.

At any rate, you have given me some good clues.

I note that, on your card, you list among the families, the name of Hartsfield. Perhaps this will be of interest to you:

I have good reason to believe that one George Washington Hartfield was married to ALICEY (ALICIA AMANDA) GRAHAM shortly after 1860. These lived in what is now Lamar County. The said Alicia Amanda was daughter of Archibald Graham and his wife Sarah Brown Graham. Archibald and Sarah were married 1825 in Lawrence County, MS.

I have good reasons to believe that the said Archibald Graham was a brother of John Graham ( who lived in Covington County ), and of Ann Graham Dampier ( who was married to Stephen Dampier in Effingham Co., Georgia 1811 ) Stephen and Ann came to Mississippi and lived in Covington Co. and later in Simpson County.

Many thanks for your interest and help.

Sincerely,

Paul Crawford

P.S. I also have good reasons to believe that John Graham of Covington County, MS. and Ann Graham Dampier were children of one HUGH GRAHAM of Effingham Georgia.

The said Hugh Graham was in same church as Dougald Graham ( Little Ogechee Baptist Church, Effingham Co., Georgia )

In North Carolina, before moving to Georgia, my Dougald Graham had land adjoining one Hugh Graham.

Terms of Membership.-No. II.

REPLY TO DR. PIERCE.

MR. EDITOR: The statute law of the church is, by fair construction, as decidedly opposed to the theory that converted persons only are eligithat converted persons only are eligible to membership as the General Rules. An analysis of the law (page 103, Discipline of 1870) gives the following points: The pastor must. inquire into the "spiritual condition" of applicants. This is general, and does not indicate the "spiritual condition" necessary. This is indicated in the prescribed points of inquiry, as follows: First. To obtain "satisfactory assurances of their desire to fice from the wrath to come and to be saved from their sins." This is in the precise language of the General Rules, and must be explained by them. Second. "Also of the genuineness of their faith." Third. "And of their willingness to keep the rules ness of their faith. After of their willingness to keep the rules of the church." Now let the ritual of the church expound the law of the church contained in these last two points of inquiry. Four questions are asked in the formula of adult bap-tism. The first corresponds in order and meaning with the first point of and meaning with the first point of inquiry above. The second and third relate to the "faith" of the applicant—the spostles' creed—and explains the second point of inquiry. The fourth question relates to the spirit of obedience to wholesome distilling and explains the third point. cipline, and explains the third point of inquiry. The questions in the form for receiving members are the same in meaning with the formula of baptism, and explain the law. invitation to the sacramental table-"ye that do truly and earnestly re-pent of your sins"—tallies with everything else in our "Form of Diseverything eise in our "Form of Dis-cipline" bearing upon the point un-der discussion. Where, we ask, in all this is that sharply-defined expe-rience of conversion claimed as an essential qualification for church mem-bership? It can only be brought in by adopting a principle of interpreta-tion that establishes a precedent for the most extravagant and violent applications of law. I must again remind the reader that this is a question of law interpretation, and not one of church wants. If Mr. Wesley and the Conventional Conference of 1808, and every General Conference since, or any of them, meant what the article under review teaches, it would be hard to find in all the history of literature a set of terms so unfortunately selected to convey the wave intended.

We urge, furthermore, an objection of a different character. One of the distinctive doctrines of Methodism is that of the "witness of the Spirit" in conscious testimony to the fact of conversion. Other churches that deny, or explain away this doctrine, need church courts to pronounce upon this fact for such as apply for membership; but Methodism makes every soul, under the guidance of the re-

"hard" as would be safe for the purity of the church and the salvation of the soul. E. S. SMITH.

At the close of the year 1835 he was received on trial into the Alabama Annual Conference, and the Alabama Annual Conference, and in due course of time attained to the offices of deacon and elder. At what point, then, can the pastor be consistently brought in as a judge? But the theory we are combatting requires him to receive none into the church until he is satisfied of the fact of conversion. In proportion as the responsibility of deciding this question is transferred from the applicant to the pastor, in the same proportion is the danger increased that they will both be deceived.

I give it as the result of my observation that, among those who stand as a reproach and shame to the church, for every one who was received without a profession of conversion, a dozen have backslidden since they were taken into church fellowship. No: if we interpret correctly, the trouble has not grown out of receiving penitent but unconverted persons into the church, but out of backslidings in the church. During that period of mighty, aggressive power, when to be a Methodist meant comething more than even a decent profession of plety, unconverted persons by thousands and tens of thousands were added to the church annually. They were placed under godly leaders, instructed and encouraged in the class meeting and love-feast, watched over by a zealous pastorate, and made to understand from the beand made to understand from the beginning that a lapse into open sin

PASCAGOULA - Pascagoula High School graduate Kevin Klasky is a survivor. Even though he has lost four members of his immediate family in the last 14 years, Kevin is looking forward to the future as he heads to the University of Mississippi on a $24,000 Lucky Day scholarship that is awarded to students based on need.

"Without the scholarship, I probably wouldn't be going to college," Kevin said.

In the face of a life filled with adversity, Kevin said he has found strength and comfort from his friends and their families whom he has known since he was a young child.

"I have two really great cousins and I have the greatest friends," Kevin said. "I love all my friends and they have helped me through a lot."

Kevin was only 5 when his mother, Adrienne Klasky, was killed by her ex-husband, Michael Graham, on April 7, 1989, at the intersection of Pascagoula Street and Jackson Avenue.

Her death stunned the community. She left behind two young sons. Graham was convicted of murder and is serving a life sentence.

"I don't really remember much about that day," Kevin said. "I was at Bethel Christian Academy in the gym when they came to get me. I don't even remember who it was.'

The young boy was taken to his "Nannie's" home where he went everyday after school. There, he was told his mother had died.

"I didn't really understand it all at the time because I was so young," Klasky said.

He and his older brother, Michael, went to live with their maternal grandparents, Lyle and Barbara Klasky. Lyle Klasky was a well-known businessman in the city and former battled lupus and fibrosis in her owner of Brumfield's.

"We just love Kevin." Hague said. "He is such a spiritual person. He is courageous and compassionate and the first to help anyone who needs help. He just wants to make good out of everything that has happened to him."

Amazingly, after everything that has occurred in Kevin's life, he is not bitter.

"Yes, I have grieved for those I have lost, but I have mourned and then I have put it away," Kevin said.

"I have come to realize that there's not much you can do about these kinds of things because what is going to happen is going to happen."

But Kevin has not been alone to face each tragedy. Not only have Kevin's friends provided him with support, but many of their parents have become surrogate parents to him.

"Kevin has had more traumas, more to cope with than any other student I have ever worked with," said Deb Banahan, a PHS counselor. Her son, Johnny Banahan is one of Kevin's friends.

"A lot of people would have given up and felt sorry for themselves, but not Kevin. He has never felt sorry for himself; he just keeps going. He cares a lot about his education and how others perceive him. pened in my life I think I would have been proud of me."

Verbecks honored on golden anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Verbeck of Pascagoula were honored July 15 on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary, with a reception hosted by their son and his family at the Lake Garden Clubhouse of Pascagoula.

The couple were married on July 14, 1934, when Mr. Verbeck took as his bride the former Mildred Delores Graham. The Rev. W.J. Dawson officiated at the ceremony, which was held in the parsonage of the Pascagoula Methodist Church.

Hosting the golden celebration were the honorees' only son, Bobby Verbeck, and his wife, Carolyn Verbeck, as well as their children: Donna Griffin and her husband Joe, Lisa Verbeck and Karen Verbeck.

For the occasion Mrs. Verbeck chose an aqua green crepe dress, with which she wore a corsage of yellow-gold silk roses and baby's breath. Mr. Verbeck wore a grey pin-stripe suit, accented with a single yellow-gold silk rose and a sprig of baby's breath as a boutonniere. Both floral tokens were gifts of their son.

A special blessing was offered at the beginning of the celebration by Dr. Dennis Johnsey, pastor of First Baptist Church. The Verbecks received many cards of congratulation from friends who could not attend.

The honored couple received their guests while seated on a wicker divan, surrounded by massed ferns in white wicker standards. Above them gilded letters spelled out a message of congratulations. Beneath the letters were two individual portraits of the honorees, taken in 1934, and mounted as a surprise. The photos were framed in white satin, festooned with golden leaves.

Karen Verbeck registered her grandparents' guests, while songs from the '30s were played throughout the clubhouse. Assisting guests were Lisa Verbeck, Donna Griffin, JoAnn Rinks, and Tina Dobbe and Kim Dobbe, both nieces of the couple.

Guests were served an assortment of food, such as festive trays of cheese, chicken nuggets and fresh fruits, including watermelon. Foods were prepared by Deaner Davis, niece of the couple, who catered the affair.

Tables laid with lace held dishes of hors d'oeuvres. Souvenir scrolls saying thank you to each of the guests were presented by Lisa Rinks.

Decorations throughout the clubhouse reflected the glided theme of the 50th anniversary celebration. On one table, placed before a large wall mirror, stood a round glass bowl garlanded with leaves of gilt. The arrangement was prepared by the honored couple's daughter-in-law, and was presented to them as a special gift during the afternoon.

Another floral tribute to the senior Verbecks consisted of 50 long-stemmed golden yellow roses, one for each year of their marriage. The silken blossoms were arranged in a large urn.

The bridegroom's table featured a bowl of golden punch, and an eight-layered yellow cake iced with chocolate. The bride's table held a three-tiered anniversary cake, topped with a golden 50th anniversary emblem. The bottom tiers of the cake were separated by slender Grecian columns, among which spray from a fountain played. Branching out from the confection were smaller cakes.

On another table was installed a large gold scrapbook, its cover embellished with a 50th anniversary emblem, and its pages filled with photos from the couple's lives, first separately and then together. The book had been prepared as a surprise for the Verbecks, and was a gift from their daughter-in-law, Carolyn Verbeck.

Special guests included Bernice Stauter of East Moss Point, who had stood with the couple as maid of honor on their wedding day, and Dr. and Mrs. Clark McMurray, former pastor of the couple and his wife.

Other special guests included Leona Small of Pascagoula and Agnes Johnson of Brandon, sisters of Mrs. Verbeck, and John Graham of Pascagoula, brother of Mrs. Verbeck.

Out of Town guests included Kathleen Graham and Elouise Adair of Saraland, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wadrup of Atmore, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. James Reeves of Lucedale; Muriel King of Fort Wayne, Ind.; Linda Yarbrough of Houston, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Graham of Mobile, Ala., and Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Johnson of Brandon.

About 200 guests called during the evening to share in the celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Verbeck

Life-long residents of the Pas-Point area, Mr. and Mrs. Verbeck were both born in East Moss Point, and have made their home in Pascagoula since the year of their marriage.

Mr. Verbeck is retired after 30 years of employment at Ingalls Shipbuilding. Mrs. Verbeck works in the nursery department of First Baptist Day Care.

Molly Graham is the nurse manager of the Singing River Hospital nursery in Pascagoula. Molly handles the management of the nursing staff as well as assisting during high risk births. Molly says of nursing, "It's something I always wanted to do. I've always loved working with babies." After being a full time mom to her four boys, she went back to school four years ago to get her nursing degree. Molly says she finds her work very rewarding and even challenging as well, especially when working with premature babies. "It's very satisfying to know that you're giving the babies the best start that you can give them." When she isn't working with the babies at the hospital, she says her life revolves around her children's activities. "Baseball, soccer, you name it."

REX FARM AT PASCAGOULA,
An Ideal Southern Home, Changes Hands.

Mr. Arflur Conway Thornton, formerly of Richmond, Va., has purchased for himself and a relative the property formerly known as the Graham estate, the mansion of which occupies the most beautiful location on the Gulf of Mexico. The mantel pieces alone in two of the parlors are of carried black and rellow Italian marble and cost $500 each. The house was built by Mr. Graham, who was at that time-probably the wealthiest man in New Orleans, and though an architect and contractor himself is said to have spent considerable.

more than $30,000 on the mansion alone.

There is a new 75-light gas machine on the premises, with eight chandeliers and lights in every one of the fifteen rooms. There are also Jwo nice comfortable cottages, with numerous fine large outbuildings.

The soil has been long celebrated for its fertility, and one; of the finest oyster planting grounds on the Gulf is in front of this property, and these waters have always been lamous for fish, shrimp and crabs, which abound in this particular spot.

The beautiful growth of trees combine varieties indigenous to the mountains as well as sea coast, and mocking, red birds and thrush swarm over the place.

It is the intention of Mr. Thornton to gradually-improve the property, already in splendid condition, until it becomes known far and wide as an ideal Southern Gulf home. There are about 400 paper shell pecan trees well established on the property, and some pear, plum; peach and apple trees glanted.

The view from the front of the property is simply magnificent in its grandeur; the blue waters of the Gulf reach out for miles around. In a radius of eight miles there are fire beautiful islands, viz: Ship, Horn, Greenwood, Petit Bots and Round. Sailing ships, steamers and tug boats pass in view and afar on the horizon, and the twinkling lights of the distant light-houses are visible at night.

In winter splendid duck shooting is here and quail, robins and rabbits galore.

The hammocks contain pecan, live oak, hickory, long lear pine persimmons, myrtle, magnolia, bay and other heautiful variaties of trees and vines.

Dear Sir:--I send to you sample of Sugar made on my farm in Jackson County sixteen miles north of Moss Point, on pine land, some two weeks ago, and manufactured thereon. There was about one-half an acre of cane which was short owing to the drouth. The yield was 2bls molasses, 84 gallons, and 200 lbs. Sugar, which would have been better had we had a better season.

Yours Very Truly, JOHN GRAHAM

The above note was accompanied by about a pound of as nice, well granulated brown sugar as we ever saw, and our merchants pronounce it a prime article and say that it would so grade in the New Orleans Market. As we have before said we expect soon to see the cane, the principal product of Southern Mississippi.

Post master returns 'home'

By JONNY SCOTT

ESCATAWPA — Odessay Graham has come home again to the Escatawpa Post Office.

"I love it here," Mrs. Graham said.
"I'm at home. I live in Escatawpa."
Her post office career began 21 years ago in the post office here. She worked here 10 years, then went to the post office in Hurley for 11 years.

As she talks about her move back home, people come in to pick up packages and buy stamps and she chats with them for a minute or two.

"How are you doing today?" Mrs. Graham asks with a friendly smile. "Let's see, it's box number 136?"

The customer nods and grins her approval.

"Some of the box numbers I remember." Mrs. Graham said as she delivers the package. "How's your daughter doing?" And before the customer (who is also a friend) has left, she has brought herself up to date on another of the families in Escatawpa she hasn't had the chance to talk with for awhile.

"This area is growing so," Mrs. Graham said. "Seems like there were something like 600 postal boxes when I left 10 years ago. Now there's 1.320." Of course this just means she is going to make a few more friends.

She started in this line of work 21 years ago when the former postmaster. Dora Lynd, went on a vacation and asked Mrs. Graham if she would come in a few hours each week and work on the cash book. She did and she found out she liked the post office.

"Well, I love people and I like to talk," she said, explaining her reason for liking the job. "Then I went to a part-time flexible clerk's job."

She worked in it for 10 years until the postmaster in Hurley retired and she got the job there as officer-in-charge.

"I went to Hurley in the first place because I wanted to move up the ladder." she said. "It was the only way to advance. I love the country.

It was the only way to advance because postmasters are rarely replaced until they retire and you cannot apply for the position until there is a vacancy, she said. After working there for a year and a half she was appointed postmaster.

She had been working there only a short while when she was notified that the post office was to be closed and she was told to post bids.

SERVICE TO BE CUT — Employment counselor Joyce Street examines the application of Kelli Graham of Escatawpa at the Pascagoula employment service office. After Oct. 1, this service will be available only at the Gulfport employment office. The Mississippi Employment Security Commission last week announced cutbacks statewide that includes closing the Pascagoula, Biloxi and Lucedale offices.

> their post office was going to be closed, they decided they were going to fight to keep it.

> And Mrs. Graham said they had good reason to fight for it. "The people needed it. It was the only post office between Escatawpa and Lucedale."

She said the citizens of Hurley got ogether and drew up a petition. "The citizens went to bat for it, to keep it pen," she said. "As postmaster, I couldn't do anything about it. But, I did do a lot of praying to keep it open."

People like the late Benny Randall started writing letters and getting signatures on the petition. Apparently it worked because just when they thought they had exhausted all their sources, they received another notification. This one stated the post office would remain open.

"I tell you, everybody was happy when they heard the post office was going to stay open to serve the community." she said. "That's what the post office is all about anyway, serving people."

In the 11 years she was there, she made many friends and they haven't forgotten her. Recently friends and neighbors in Hurley held a reception in her honor, called "Tribute to a Friend," at the East Central Library.

Warren Mizelle, owner of Randall's Grocery, said, "Mrs. Graham played a real instrumental role in the post office in Hurley. Benny (Randall), her and my father (Rev. Grady Mizelle) were the most instrumental in keeping the post office here. I'm glad for her sake that she moved, but we sure hated to lose her. We feel like we lost a good friend.'

Judy Cumbest, a substitute teacher and friend, said, "I don't think it is in my vocabulary to tell how I feel about her. She is just the grandest person I've ever met; self-sacrificing, very energetic, smart and always eager to learn something else. She was just a fantastic friend.

"Besides giving of her inner-self, she is one of the most community minded individuals. She raised money for all kinds of community projects. There is just no end to all the community things she has done.

"When she told me she had put in for the position in Escatawpa, she said she felt that she needed to do this for herself. That's the first time I can remember that she has done something for herself. And I told her, 'I'm not going to pray against you getting that position in Escatawpa, but I'm not going to pray for it."

Apparently the feeling is mutual. Mrs. Graham said what she will remember most about Hurley is, "The love that was shown to me. That community is really a four-letter word - LOVE."

She replaced Mrs. Dora Lynd who was postmaster for 30 years. She was a good postmaster as well as a friend to Mrs. Graham, she said.

The reason she returned to Escatawpa is a simple one. "It is closer to my home in Escatawpa. And it's always a challange to try to achieve something that is larger and carries with it more responsibilities."

Another group of people come in for packages and she gets back to work. She looks over her shoulder and looks at all the customers (the latest challange) and says, "If I can just do a job here as well as Mrs. Lynd...'

dent Johnson has reviewed plans for a NATO nuclear navy armed with Polaris missiles and ordered full speed ahead on the controversial project, administration officials said today.

One result is that key congressmen soon will be consulted by the administration on details of the proposed "Multi-Lateral Nuclear Force" (MLF), which would consist of 25 surface vessels with a total of 200 missiles. The legislators are to be given a progress report on negotiations with the Allies.

Arrangements already are being made for a "demonstration" ship to prove that it is practical to operate a warship with a crew drawn from several allied nations. The United States has offered one of its guided missile destroyers for this purpose.

DAISY ITEMS. BY DICK HARRIS.

Crops are looking better since the rain.

Mr. J. W. Tootle was a visitor Friday.

They did get the place in spite of them. 0-The corn crop will be short throughout the county this season. They made their point, if it did cost them $20 more. A small dose of attend to your own-business would be a good remedy for some folks. They say that he would buy New Orleans if he could get it on a credit.

The wedding season seems to be over with in this section, though there is a lot of old, dry-looking ma-terial here yet that may come in later

Mr. Edward Daniel says that he is going to haul saw logs till they get so far away that he will have to camp one night at the landing and the next in the woods.

One of our neighbors, who claims himself to be the laziest man in this section, fired the woods the other day while at work and the people are mad with him. But he says they should not, as it is the first time he ever fired the woods while at work.
